

TRAILER SAFETY

On the road, your horse depends on the combination of trailer, tow vehicle, and driver. Don't risk the health and safety of your horses and the people who share the road.

Indiana Dressage Society presents the first in a series of live webcast education!

Trailer Safety and Maintenance Webcast: Thursday June 11th - 7:00pm EDT

Please join IDS for a live webcast and Q & A session on Trailer Safety and Maintenance with Robin Ridgeway, a recognized expert on this topic. You'll gain an understanding of the interconnected safety systems and ratings, learn how to perform a proper inspection of your rig each time you use it, plus ongoing maintenance best practices. Your horse depends on you!

The fee for this event is $25, but IDS members can attend free of charge so be sure to renew or join IDS to receive your complimentary webcast invitation.

Learning objectives for the webcast:

- The importance of common trailer safety features
- How do you know if your vehicle can safely pull your trailer?
- How to inspect your rig prior to each use
- What is the proper annual maintenance for your vehicle and trailer?

Register Here

Register now and receive Robin's resource publication on trailer safety and maintenance.

This is the first of a series of live webcasts IDS is offering via Zoom web-conferencing. We are sponsoring these events to provide our membership, as well as all dressage and horse enthusiasts, access to experts who will present a variety of topics relevant to dressage... with the added bonus of being able to connect with familiar faces from around the state.

Robin Ridgeway lives in Lafayette Indiana where she has owned and operated a small boarding business with her husband and 16-year-old daughter for the last 25 years. Robin's interest in all things trailer came naturally. She grew up on a farm in upstate New York working on cars alongside her mother, a certified automotive technician. Robin recently earned her Technical Certificate in Automotive Service from Ivy Tech and is Director of Environmental Health and Safety Regulatory Compliance at Purdue University.

Trailers are Robin's passion and she proudly owns (and maintains) a 1984 Tracer 2 horse bumper pull that her trailer shop calls "The Antique." Oh, and she competitively drag races her Ford F350 tow vehicle.